PRESIDENT SEEKS SECOND TERM

Dem Criticism Of Dulles Said 'Indefensible'

Sen. Smith Lashes Out At Sen. Fulbright In Foreign Policy Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) today described as "completely indefensible" a Democratic claim that Secretary of State Dulles attempted to "deceive the American people about the deadly menace" of Soviet Russia.

Smith charged that Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) based his Senate attack Monday on "off the cuff statements" Dulles made under questioning by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday.

Smith also said Fulbright "completely ignored a more complete statement" Dulles made in a Philadelphia address Sunday.

At his news conference yesterday, Dulles stood firm on the position he took last Friday—that free world unity has forced a change in Soviet tactics. Democrats in the Senate have been contending they see no signs the Russians have been put on the defensive.

In his speech, Smith called for bipartisan backing of the President's "new and more flexible policy of economic aid" to countries being wooed by Russia in its current diplomatic, social and economic offensive.

THE ADMINISTRATION seeks long-range economic aid authority, but congressional leaders have indicated a reluctance to grant such powers except possibly on specific development projects.

Some Democrats have argued that Dulles' optimistic sizeup of conditions last Friday has undercut the administration's bid for such blanket aid authority.

Smith said, "I would not have been shocked if the senator from Arkansas differed in the appraisal of world facts from the position of the secretary."

But, he continued, to charge that Dulles "had actually misrepresented the facts to the American people, and to charge he would say one thing publicly, and an opposite thing privately, is to me completely indefensible."

Smith called Dulles a "great American statesman," and said all can agree "there never has been a secretary of state of higher integrity."

Cross Is Burned In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A 10-foot cross blazed here last night, brightening a sign scrawled with the words: "Keep our kids safe from the black plague."

The cross burning was the first in New Orleans since the era of the Ku Klux Klan in the 1920s. The incident came in the midst of a school segregation controversy, spotlighted by a conflict between lay Roman Catholic leaders and church officials.

Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, in a pastoral letter Feb. 19, declared segregation "morally wrong and sinful" and indicated he would desegregate parochial schools, perhaps by September.

Benson Accused Of Seeking Votes

Cut-Rate Cotton Surplus Sale Labeled As 'Pressure Tactics'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ellender (D-La.) today described as "pressure tactics" for votes in behalf of the administration farm program a new drive by the Agriculture Department to capture a bigger share of the world cotton market.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson announced late yesterday that his department on Aug. 1 will offer cut-rate prices in a campaign to regain for U. S. cotton farmers their traditional share of world markets.

The government now holds some 12 million bales of cotton, representing an investment of more than $2 billion, which it acquired in supporting domestic prices.

Benson said that with White House and State Department approval, his agency will seek to boost exports to around five million bales yearly—more than double the present level.

The embassy of Egypt, one of the world's leading cotton producers, said through a spokesman "We consider it a very unfortunate step at this time."

ELLENDER, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, declared:

"This is an open effort to swing the votes of some Southern senators against rigid 90 per cent of parity supports. It could be successful, but my hunch is that it won't work."

Ellender is leading a battle in the Senate for a return to farm price supports at 90 per cent of parity, a legal standard said to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs. The bill would provide for mandatory 90 per cent supports in cotton, wheat, corn and peanuts.

The administration is fighting this plan, urging that Congress retain the flexible support system voted two years ago. Under it, price props may vary between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, depending on production needed.

Benson said the cotton sales program has no connection with the farm bill fight. He acknowledged, however, that it should help woo some Southern voters.

Ellender termed the announcement "just part of the bait to swing votes" and said he anticipates also that the administration will disclose large planting allotments and high supports for cotton.

"Secretary Benson could have announced this cotton export sale program ever since he's been in office," Ellender said. "Why does he wait until we approach a showdown vote? This involves pressure tactics and lobbying."

Council Approves 2 Measures During Special Session Tuesday

City council, in a special session Tuesday night, agreed to adopt a resolution at its next regular meeting to allow Service Director Dewey Speakman to enter into a special contract with Northend property owners for tapping into a temporary sewer system.

The Circleville lawmakers also gave their consent to bring up another resolution to allow the State Highway Department to resurface the city's portion of Northridge Rd., which is Route 188.

Following the meeting, city councilmen discussed the reconfiguration of local ordinances, a job that has been in progress for a long time. The lawmakers went over numerous questions, supplied by the Cincinnati law firm doing the reconfiguration, with City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins. With all the problems apparently adjusted, Robbins will now send the final draft to Cincinnati.

The sewer tap resolution may well provide the answer to the steady complaints of Northend residents. The main problem in that area is concerned with the overflowing of septic tanks.

A SEWER is being built along Georgia Rd. by a private construction firm. Residents in that area would be permitted to tap into the sewer, under the proposal, as a temporary measure. Later, when the city installs its own proposed sewer, these residents will tap into the new sewer and be assessed accordingly.

Property owners in the Cedar Heights area have long complained about surface water drainage, especially after heavy rains. Residents have claimed that puddles of water remain in the area for a long time, causing a health hazard.

Those people living on Sunset Drive would benefit mostly through the current proposal. However, councilmen agreed that at least part of the problem would be solved.

On the resurfacing issue, Speakman pointed out that the project would cost the city very little if it gave its consent to the state. The only approval necessary is for the portion inside the corporate limits.

City council's next regular meeting is Tuesday, March 6.

Bricker Fears International Trade Control

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) told the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Assn. annual dinner last night that some of the United Nations' spending programs "are based on the false assumption that a global distribution of wealth would be just."

He said that on the international, as well as domestic scene, "men afflicted with planner's itch" are seeking to control the production, distribution and rise of basic commodities such as wheat, oil, sugar and rubber.

The goal of this group, he continued, "is total regimentation of international trade."

"The friends of the free market economy drew first blood when the UN's international trade organizations collapsed for want of United Nations support."

"But when this master plan aborted, the global planners formulated international agreements for particular commodities."

He cited the Olive Oil Fund, which he said would be known unofficially as "OOF", adding:

"You know who would foot the bill."

Bricker said two agencies, the UN's International Labor Organization and Human Rights Commission, are seeking to regulate under treaty law "the economic rights and duties of people all over the world."

The "extravagant economic promises" of ILO and UN treaties, he said, "not be fulfilled without the imposition of unjust economic duties."

Adlai Says Ike's Policies To Be Issue

Lausche Is 'Happy' President Decides To OK Second Term

NEW YORK (AP)—Adlai Stevenson said today "It is fitting that President Eisenhower be the candidate." He said the "main issue will be the policies and record of the Eisenhower administration."

Stevenson, defeated by Eisenhower in the 1952 election and a leading contender for the Democratic presidential nomination this year, said:

"As the administration's chief architect and spokesman, Mr. Eisenhower will have to carry the burden of what will be a very vigorous campaign."

Referring to the President's heart attack of five months ago, Stevenson continued:

"Mr. Eisenhower has drawn the distinction between the private matter of his personal health and the public question of how the office of president shall be conducted."

"I assume he will deal with this aspect of his decision in his report to the people, and set the terms of the debate on this issue."

OHIO'S DEMOCRATIC governor, Frank J. Lausche, said he was happy to learn of Eisenhower's decision.

Lausche, who is seeking election to the U. S. Senate, said: "The people of the country undoubtedly are happy, and so am I, to learn that the President finds, and the doctors confirm, that his state of health will make it possible for him to be a candidate for the Presidency."

French Chief Rapped For His Truce Plan

PARIS (AP)—Most Paris papers were critical today of Premier Guy Mollet's call for Algerian rebels to cease firing or face intensified French military action.

Gen. Augustin Guillaume, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, was reported to have offered the resignation because of differences with several cabinet members over the proposed military measures.

There was no immediate indication whether Guillaume was against Mollet's plans or trying to defend them against opponents within the coalition cabinet, but a defense ministry spokesman said the matter "might be brought up" at a cabinet meeting today.

First reports from the revolted North African territory said both French and Moslems there also were disappointed by the premier's speech yesterday. The Moslems thought he hadn't conceded enough to them. The French settlers had expected a stronger warning to the rebels.

An Algerian guerrilla leader in Cairo, Mohammed ben Bella, warned that the rebels may seek Soviet arms if the French step up their military campaign.

Mollet set no time limit for acceptance or rejection of his cease-fire plea, but promised to hold "genuinely free elections" within three months after fighting stops.

This Is Year A Lady Can Bespoke Ye Man She Likes

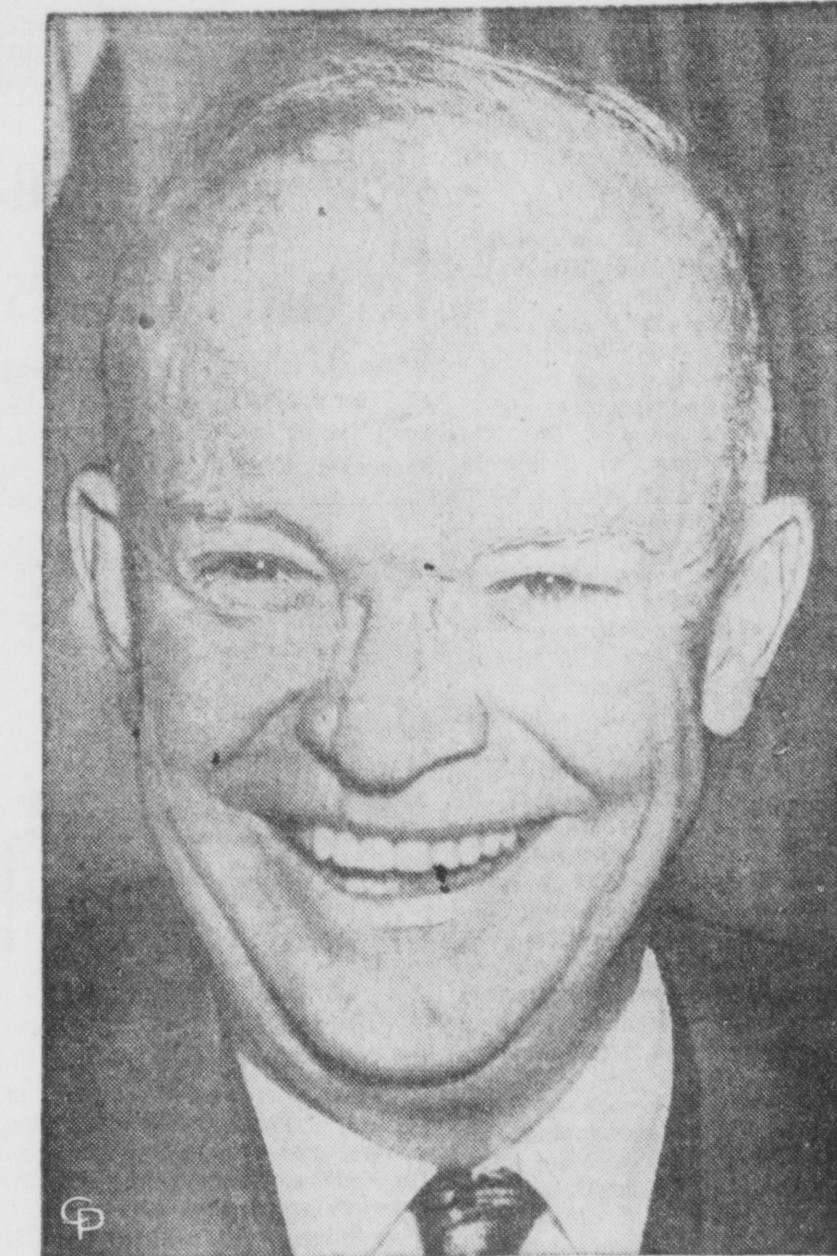

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the year when a young lady can "bespoke ye man she likes" with a tradition at least six centuries old to back her up.

First Testimony Is Heard In Baldrige Murder Trial

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP)—The widow of slain game warden Irvin J. Patrick was the state's first witness today in the second-degree murder trial of George Baldrige, 63, former Adams County sheriff. Patrick was a native of Pickaway County.

Baldrige is accused of the Nov. 15, 1955 shotgun slaying of Patrick, 43. The shooting occurred on Baldrige's 300-acre farm about seven miles northwest of here. Baldrige maintains the shooting was accidental.

The widow, Mrs. Marie Patrick, testified she last saw her husband on the morning he was killed. She was on the witness stand only a few minutes and was not cross-examined.

The next state witness, Frank Boylan, an amateur photographer, and 1955 president of the County Game Assn., showed pictures he had taken of the fatal wound.

The last witness of the morning session was Jack Kamman, a state game supervisor who was with Patrick when he was killed.

On instructions from Common Pleas Judge John P. Case, the jury spent about 45 minutes yesterday touring the farm seven miles north of here before hearing opening statements of the defense and prosecution.

Prosecutor John S. Bath called the shooting "a purposeful and malicious" act.

Defense Atty. Emory S. Smith of Portsmouth said the shooting had been "an accident."

During the trial Bath also is expected to call as witnesses Dr. Mel A. Davis of Columbus who performed the post-mortem examination; Dr. N. M. Reiff, Fayette County coroner; Orland Hays, sheriff; Robert McArthur, deputy sheriff; Richard Craig, a neighbor of Baldrige; and Joseph Martina of Columbus, investigator for the Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation.

Defense Attorneys Smith, W.S. Paxton of Washington C. H. and E. S. Young of West Union have scheduled as witnesses five relatives of Baldrige who were in the hunting party at the time of the shooting. They are:

Hugh Baldrige of West Union, a brother; Donald Butler of Seaman, Adams County, brother-in-law; D. B. Butler of Seaman and Robert Butler of Williamsburg, nephews, and Mrs. Robert Butler.

Idle Pay Claims Now On Decline

COLUMBUS (AP)—Decreases were noted by the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation in both new and continuing claims for the week ended Feb. 25.

The bureau said new claims for that week totaled 9,217 compared with 9,689 the previous week. Claims of persons unemployed one week or more totaled 62,617 for the week ended Feb. 25 compared with 64,313 the previous week.

The average for new claims each week in February 1955 was 11,108, and the average each week of continuing claims in February 1955 was 92,275.

7 Children Die In Arkansas Fire

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP)—Seven children perished near here last night when fire destroyed their four room frame house.

The pregnant mother, Mrs. Viola Edwards, was burned critically, but the father and two other children escaped.

The dead were identified by their 33-year-old father Lonnie Edwards as Willie, 13; Patricia Ann, 8; Lula Jean, 6; Garland, 4; and Jerome, 1.

Farmer's Beef Sale Share Shows Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that the farmer got 62 cents of every dollar consumers spent for beef in 1955 compared with 70 cents in 1949.

The difference between what the farmer gets and the consumer pays, called the "marketing margin," represents the return to marketers for their services.

The department said costs involved in the marketing process, such as labor, supplies and transportation, have risen substantially since the war.

Ike To Explain His Decision Over Radio-TV Tonight

'My Answer Will Be Positive-Affirmative,' Eisenhower Tells Reporters At Dramatic Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower announced today he is available for a second term.

The President's dramatic announcement came at a tense, record capacity news conference.

He said he will go on nationwide television and radio tonight to explain his decision to the American people.

"My answer will be positive-affirmative," Eisenhower said.

The CBS and Mutual networks announced that Eisenhower's address will be broadcast live from 10 to 10:30 p. m. tonight.

CBS will carry it on both TV and radio networks. MBS has only a radio network.

The President declined to say at this time whether he favors Vice President Nixon as his running mate again.

However, he again had warm praise for Nixon and called him a dedicated public servant.

EISENHOWER'S second term announcement had been expected at today's news conference, on the basis of his own earlier remarks, but up to the moment he walked into the conference room there was no certainty it would come.

For the first eight minutes of the session, the President, calm and collected, tantalized the newsmen by talking first about various other matters—such things as the Red Cross drive for funds, the pending farm bill, and a water resources measure which is before Congress.

With the tension mounting, Eisenhower finally turned to the subject everyone had been waiting for him to discuss—his attitude regarding a second term.

He said he had an announcement which was something more personal in nature, and recalled that he had promised the newsmen that he would disclose his second term plans to them first if it could be worked out that way.

Eisenhower then said he had reached a decision whether to bid for another four years in the White House.

He went on to say that his decision involves so many factors that it was impossible for him to express it in terms of a simple yes or no.

For that reason, he added, he was asking the TV-radio networks or time tonight to speak to the American people.

EISENHOWER said he did not know for sure whether either the Republican party or the people generally want him to serve another four years, but that he was going directly to the people and tell them the facts.

At that point, the President ended the months of speculation and announced:

"My answer will be positive—that is, affirmative."

That statement came just five months and five days after Eisenhower's Sept. 24 heart attack.

Eisenhower's announcement pre-announces his nomination by acclamation at the party's Aug. 20 convention in San Francisco, unless some development meantime should alter the situation.

Republicans from top leaders down through the rank and file have been hoping and praying that Eisenhower would consent to run again.

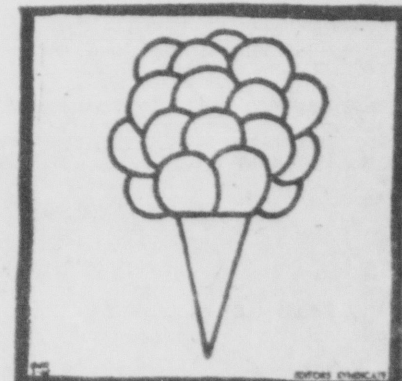

In the absence of a definite nod from Eisenhower in behalf of Nixon, there remains some division in the party, however, about a vice presidential nominee. Some elements would like to drop Nixon from the No. 2 spot.

But it is generally accepted that Eisenhower, as the nominee, can have anyone he wants as his running mate. And many party members believe he would want Nixon since the President has repeatedly

If you're an ice-creamophobe (don't bother looking this word up as I made it up) there are several alternate titles for this Droodle. It might also be called A Corsage of Meat Balls or even "Holes Waiting to get into Wedge of Swiss Cheese." And if you're the type of person whose imagination has a two-way stretch you can turn the newspaper upside down and try calling it: "An Athletic Witch Dribbling 2 Dozen Basketballs" or "A Squadron of Flying Saucers Sneaking up on Rocket Ship" or even "A Slice of Eskimo Pie with Side Order of Arctic Circles." Personally, though, I prefer the original title and for a very good reason. It's the shortest.

Dem Criticism Of Dulles Said 'Indefensible'

Sen. Smith Lashes Out
At Sen. Fulbright In Foreign Policy Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) today described as "completely indefensible" a Democratic claim that Secretary of State Dulles attempted to "deceive the American people about the deadly menace" of Soviet Russia.

Smith charged that Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) based his Senate attack Monday on "off the cuff statements." Dulles made under questioning by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Friday.

Smith also said Fulbright "completely ignored a more complete statement" Dulles made in a Philadelphia address Sunday.

At his news conference yesterday, Dulles stood firm on the position he took last Friday—that free world unity has forced a change in Soviet tactics. Democrats in the Senate have been contending they see no signs the Russians have been put on the defensive.

In his speech, Smith called for bipartisan backing of the President's "new and more flexible policy of economic aid" to countries being wooed by Russia in its current diplomatic, social and economic offensive.

THE ADMINISTRATION seeks long-range economic aid authority, but congressional leaders have indicated a reluctance to grant such powers except possibly on specific development projects.

Some Democrats have argued that Dulles' optimistic sizeup of conditions last Friday has undercut the administration's bid for such blanket aid authority.

Smith said, "I would not have been shocked if the senator from Arkansas differed in the appraisal of world facts from the position of the secretary."

But, he continued, to charge that Dulles "had actually misrepresented the facts to the American people, and to charge he would say one thing publicly, and an opposite thing privately, is to me completely indefensible."

Smith called Dulles a "great American statesman," and said all can agree "there never has been a secretary of state of higher integrity."

Benson Accused Of Seeking Votes

Cut-Rate Cotton Surplus Sale

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ellen-

"pressure tactics" for votes in behalf of the administration farm program a new drive by the Agriculture Department to capture a bigger share of the world cotton

Farmer's Beef Sale Share Shows Drop

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that the farmer got 62 cents of every dollar consumers spent for beef in 1955 compared with 70 cents in 1949.

The difference between what the farmer gets and the consumer pays, called the "marketing margin," represents his return to marketers for their services.

The department said costs involved in the marketing process, such as labor, supplies and transportation, have risen substantially since the war.

Ike To Explain His Decision Over Radio-TV Tonight

'My Answer Will Be Positive-
Affirmative,' Eisenhower Tells Reporters At Dramatic Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower announced today he is available for a second term.

The President's dramatic announcement came at a tense, record capacity news conference.

He said he will go on nationwide television and radio tonight to explain his decision to the American people.

"My answer will be positive-affirmative," Eisenhower said.

The CBS and Mutual networks announced that Eisenhower's address will be broadcast live from 10 to 10:30 p. m. tonight.

CBS will carry it on both TV and radio networks. MBS has only a radio network.

The President declined to say at this time whether he favors Vice President Nixon as his running mate again.

However, he again had warm praise for Nixon and called him a dedicated public servant.

EISENHOWER'S second term
announcement had been expected at today's news conference, on the basis of his own earlier remarks,

Hearers Tense But Ike Calm

311 Newsmen On Hand
For Big Announcement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The earnest man in the brown suit acted as if he had plenty of time.

He praised the Red Cross. He spoke well of Italian President Gronchi. He said he wished Congress would get busy and pass the farm and Upper Colorado Basin legislation he wants.

Then, as calmly as though he were discussing the weather, Dwight D. Eisenhower gave the news the world had been waiting for: He is willing to run for a second term.

The atmosphere in the jam-packed, steaming hot meeting room was electric with tension.
The biggest crowd of newsmen ever to attend an Eisenhower news conference—311—listened with almost painful intensity as the President—still calm, still cool—told in a conversational tone that he had made up his mind and would run if the Republican party and the American people wanted him.

Then, the decision announced, a change seemed to come over Eisenhower.

Gone was the air of apparent hesitancy that often has characterized him in the months since his Sept. 24 heart attack. He spoke more briskly, with greater assurance. He said there were some things he didn't want to talk about in advance of his radio-television appearance tonight.

AND BY GOLLY, as he himself might well have put it, he refused to talk about those things until he was good and ready.

Standing behind his usual desk with its twin microphones and yellow blotter, the President was face to face with 207 reporters at about his own eye level. Upstairs, packed behind a wrought iron balcony, were 104 others. About 75 who turned up late were turned away for lack of space.

In the prevailing tension several reporters made a false start for the door at one point before the conference actually ended with the traditional "Thank you, Mr. President."

When the rush for the door did come, it was like a thundering herd. Reporters battered their way through the throng to the opening doors, raced for telephone booths in the corridor outside.

"Flash!" "Bulletin!" The words went out with the speed of light.

DROODLES By ROGER PRICE

"FIVE DOLLAR ICE CREAM CONE"

If you're an ice-creamophobe (don't bother looking this word up as I made it up) there are several alternate titles for this Droodle.
It might also be called A Corsage of Meat Balls" or even "Holes Waiting to get into Wedge of Swiss Cheese." And if you're the type of person whose imagination has a two-way stretch you can turn the newspaper upside down and try calling it: "An Athletic Witch Dribbling 2 Dozen Basketballs" or "A Squadron of Flying Saucers Sneaking up on Rocket Ship" or even
"A Slice of Eskimo Pie with Side Order of Arctic Circles." Personally, though, I prefer the original title and for a very good reason.
It's the shortest.

to have the prayers and good wishes of the citizenry. He is worthy of them.

"My plans are not changed. On Jan. 8, I stated:

"I'm not seeking the office of the President of the United States. I have allowed my name to be used as favorite son of Ohio for the purpose of having Ohio delegates in a position where they could be pledged to someone.

"I know my limitation and I want to say to you that I am not going to look for the stars, grasping into the limitless space while my feet are stumbling in the pitfalls of the office which I now have to administer."

GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall called it "the best possible news for all Americans." But Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler predicted: "The American People will never elect a President who, at 65, has had a serious heart attack and who is unable to be a fulltime chief executive."

Eisenhower's decision to turn touched off a great wave of trading in the stock market at moderately higher prices.

Price reporting facilities on the New York Stock Exchange were swamped. The tape was as much as 19 minutes late in reporting the progress of trading. Despite the tremendous show of activity, prices didn't rise very far. There were gains of one to two points among leaders, but most of the advance was below a point.

Ike To Explain His Decision Over Radio-TV

spoken his high regard for the vice president.

Just before Eisenhower ended his 23-minute meeting with reporters, he said he never would have decided to seek reelection unless he thought he would live out the next five years.

That recalled his doctors' report on Feb. 15 saying the President appeared physically fit to serve "another 5 to 10 years" in a job like the presidency.

IN the course of the conference, the newsmen fired many questions at Eisenhower regarding his decision. To several, he replied that he would withhold the answer until his TV-radio talk tonight.

But, responding to one question, Eisenhower said his decision to run should not have the effect of excluding any other candidates if they want to get into the race.

So far there has been only one announced conditional candidate for the GOP nomination, Sen. William F. Knowland of California. And Knowland has said he would withdraw if Eisenhower decided to seek re-election.

Asked when he reached his momentous decision, Eisenhower touched off a laugh by saying he was still arguing with himself about it Tuesday morning.

At another point he said that maybe a half dozen persons were informed of the decision last evening after he had reached it. He did not name any of them.

Another question was whether he had made a decision regarding a second term before his September heart attack. With a chuckle, Eisenhower replied that is a secret he thinks he never will disclose, except possibly in his official papers after he has left the White House.

The news conference was held in the regular meeting place—the ornate Indian Treaty Room in the old State Department Building.

Hours before the 10:30 a.m. (EST) scheduled hour, newsmen were queued up outside. The room accommodates 270 reporters while there are 773 who have White House credentials entitling them to attend presidential news conferences—if they can get in.

Eisenhower came into the room at 10:29 a.m. He was smiling as he entered with Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Asst. Secretary Murray Snyder.

Pleased be seated, Eisenhower told the newsmen who always rise on his arrival. Then he launched into his eight minute tantalizing discussion of other matters before giving them word of the big question.

station is being conducted in Kentucky and scientists are optimistic about its success.

Archer pointed out that Pickaway County's soil is a heavy clay type, and if farmers design their ponds which are "engineered soundly", they would have no trouble keeping ponds on their farms.

HE SAID THE ideal setup here would be to have 10 acres of runoff for one acre of pond area. He declared that in some instances in this area, the actual runoff is 100 acres of runoff for every acre of pond area.

Archer said that other materials are also being tested for holding pond water, but he emphasized the fact that all of these materials are in the experimental stage.

The idea for plastic "diapers" developed from a plastic covering for greenhouses. The material kept water out of the greenhouses and engineers figured it might keep in ponds.

In constructing the pond, loose dirt is removed and sheets of plastic (polyethylene) .006 of an inch thick and 12 feet wide are placed on the pond floor, lapped a foot at the seams, and covered with eight inches of dirt.

The material is said to cost about two cents a square foot. One agricultural engineer said a cheaper plastic, two-thirds as thick might be satisfactory.

Gas Bill Probe Complicated

Lawyer's Excursions Into Politics Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special Senate committee strives today to resolve a direct conflict in accounts of whether oil company lawyer John M. Neff offered an Iowa campaign contribution.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the four-member group named to investigate a $2,500 contribution from Neff which Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) rejected, said he was reasonably confident the group's public hearings could be completed today.

But the committee held similar hopes for yesterday's session, only to find itself involved in a new line of inquiry when Neff for the first time testified about an excursion into Iowa political waters.

The Lexington, Neb., lawyer told the committee he never offered any money as a campaign contribution for Sen. Hickel (R-Iowa). He said he had no funds to do so.

In Des Moines, Robert Goodwin, Iowa Republican national committeeman and the man with whom Neff talked last November, said Neff offered him $1,000 for Hickel's campaign.

BUT GOODWIN said he turned it down and never arranged the meeting Neff asked with the Iowa senator.

A secondary conflict involved Neff's testimony he made only one visit to Des Moines. Goodwin said there were two.

Witnesses listed for today's session include President Howard B. Keck of the Superior Oil Co. of California, who provided the money for the proffered campaign funds; Elmer Patman of Austin, Tex., lawyer for Superior; Jarvis Davenport, Western campaign manager for Case in South Dakota; and E. J. Kahler, business manager of the Sioux Falls Daily Argus-Leader, with whom Neff left the $2,500 intended for Case.

The university bought the manuscripts from the poet's grandson, Sir Charles Tennyson, with a bequest of Amy Lowell, famous American poet.

Miss Lucy Goes To Court In Alabama Racial Squabble

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Authentic Lucy today renews her court struggle to crack Alabama's rigid segregation barriers.

For Federal Judge H. Hobart Grooms the basic question is whether the 26-year-old Negro, a former schoolteacher, should be returned to the all-white University of Alabama campus at Tuscaloosa. A mob drove her off the campus Feb. 6.

The Lucy case has assumed enormous significance here as a test of the federal court's willingness to insist on compliance with its orders despite the state's powerful, pro-segregation sentiments and customs.

In Montgomery, Gov. James E. Folsom again said he would maintain law and order at the university regardless of the outcome of the hearing.

"I don't expect trouble," he said. "I expect the good old laws of common sense to prevail."

Human Failure Blamed For Rail Wreck

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass. (AP)—The Boston & Maine Railroad today blamed "human failure" for the rear end collision of two commuter trains which killed 13 and injured 100 at the height of a blinding snowstorm yesterday.

The B & M said its preliminary investigation showed a Budd train passed two warning signals and a flagman before ramming into the rear of a halted passenger train in this coastal town about 12 miles north of Boston.

A statement by the railroad said the engineer of the second train, Ernest Tourtellotte, 55, of Winchester, who was killed in the crash, violated operating rules.

A less serious rear-end collision of two B & M trains occurred in Revere, about 10 miles away, an hour later and the railroad said that, too, was caused by "similar circumstances."

Twenty persons were injured in the Revere accident, including some who had escaped injury in the Swampscott wreck and had boarded the other train to continue to Boston.

In the Swampscott wreck, a four-car, self-propelled Budd train headed from Danvers to Boston, smashed into the rear of the train, bound from Portsmouth, N. H., to Boston, which had stopped because its engineer couldn't read a snow-plastered signal.

The Portsmouth train was made up of six cars and a diesel engine. The two trains carried about 1,000 passengers, most of them en route to work and school.

For 29 months Miss Lucy has sought the right to be educated at the 125-year-old university, once a training school for Confederate officers.

With the aid of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People she fought the case through to the U. S. Supreme Court and won. Last July 1 Judge Grooms ordered her admission.

She enrolled for the mid-term semester, but when she actually tried to attend classes she was met by an egg and rock-throwing mob of 3,000.

In the wake of the riot the university's Board of Trustees barred her from the campus "for her own safety."

Miss Lucy's attorney Arthur D. Shores promptly sought contempt of court proceedings against 13 officers and trustees of the university and four men identified only as members of the mob.

"I'm not seeking the office of the President of the United States. I have allowed my name to be used as favorite son of Ohio for the purpose of having Ohio delegates in a position where they could be pledged to someone."

"I know my limitation and I want to say to you that I am not going to look for the stars, grasping into the limitless space while my feet are stumbling in the pitfalls of the office which I now have to administer."

GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall called it "the best possible hope for all Americans." But Democratic Chairman Paul M. Butler predicted: "The American People will never elect a President who, at 65, has had a serious heart attack and who is unable to be a fulltime chief executive."

Eisenhower's decision to run touched off a great wave of trading in the stock market at moderately higher prices.

Price reporting facilities on the New York Stock Exchange were swamped. The tape was as much as 19 minutes late in reporting the progress of trading. Despite the tremendous show of activity, prices didn't rise very far. There were gains of one to two points among leaders, but most of the advance was below a point.

spoken his high regard for the vice president.

Just before Eisenhower ended his 23-minute meeting with reporters, he said he never would have decided to seek reelection unless he thought he would live out the next five years.

That recalled his doctors' report on Feb. 15 saying the President appeared physically fit to serve "another 5 to 10 years" in a job like the presidency.

IN the course of the conference, the newsmen fired many questions at Eisenhower regarding his decision. To several, he replied that he would withhold the answer until his TV-radio talk tonight.

But, responding to one question, Eisenhower said his decision to run should not have the effect of excluding any other candidates if they want to get into the race.

So far there has been only one announced conditional candidate for the GOP nomination, Sen. William F. Knowland of California. And Knowland has said he would withdraw if Eisenhower decided to seek re-election.

Asked when he reached his momentous decision, Eisenhower touched off a laugh by saying he was still arguing with himself about it Tuesday morning.

At another point he said that maybe a half dozen persons were informed of the decision last evening after he had reached it. He did not name any of them.

Another question was whether he had made a decision regarding a second term before his September heart attack. With a chuckle, Eisenhower replied that is a secret he thinks he never will disclose, except possibly in his official papers after he has left the White House.

The news conference was held in the regular meeting place—the ornate Indian Treaty Room in the old State Department Building.

Hours before the 10:30 a. m. (EST) scheduled hour, newsmen were queued up outside. The room accommodates 270 reporters while there are 773 who have White House credentials entitling them to attend presidential news conferences—if they can get in.

Eisenhower came into the room at 10:29 a. m. He was smiling as he entered with Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Asst. Secretary Murray Snyder.

Pleased be seated, Eisenhower told the newsmen who always rise on his arrival. Then he launched into his eight minute tantalizing discussion of other matters before giving them word of the big question.

New Pond Plan Is Unnecessary Locally Declares Don Archer

The experimental plastic "diapers" for farm ponds would not be very useful in Pickaway County, according to Don Archer, head of the local soil conservation service.

The "diapers", which are being tried out at Lexington, Ky., are designed to solve the problem of farm ponds which will not retain water for any great length of time.

The man-made plastic bottom, no thicker than an ordinary raincoat, is said to be strong enough to last 20 years. A test demonstration is being conducted in Kentucky and scientists are optimistic about its success.

Archer pointed out that Pickaway County's soil is a heavy clay type, and if farmers design their ponds which are "engineered sound", they would have no trouble keeping ponds on their farms.

HE SAID THE ideal setup here would be to have 10 acres of runoff for one acre of pond area. He declared that in some instances in this area, the actual ratio is 100 acres of runoff for every acre of pond area.

Archer said that other materials are also being tested for holding pond water, but he emphasized the fact that all of these materials are in the experimental stage.

The idea for plastic "diapers" developed from a plastic covering for greenhouses. The material kept water out of the greenhouses and engineers figured it might keep in ponds.

In constructing the pond, loose dirt is removed and sheets of plastic (polyethylene) .006 of an inch thick and 12 feet wide are placed on the pond floor, lapped a foot at the seams, and covered with eight inches of dirt.

The material is said to cost about two cents a square foot. One agricultural engineer said a cheaper plastic, two-thirds as thick might be satisfactory.

Gas Bill Probe Complicated

Lawyer's Excursions Into Politics Eyed

WASHINGTON — A special Senate committee strives today to resolve a direct conflict in accounts of whether oil company lawyer John M. Neff offered an Iowa campaign contribution.

Sen. George (D-Ga.), chairman of the four-member group named to investigate a $2,500 contribution from Neff which Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) rejected, said he was reasonably confident the group's public hearings could be completed today.

But the committee held similar hopes for yesterday's session, only to find itself involved in a new line of inquiry when Neff for the first time testified about an excursion into Iowa political waters.

The Lexington, Neb., lawyer told the committee he never offered any money as a campaign contribution for Sen. Hickel (R-Iowa). He said he had no funds to do so.

In Des Moines, Robert Goodwin, Iowa Republican national committeeman and the man with whom Neff talked last November, said Neff offered him $1,000 for Hickel's campaign.

BUT GOODWIN said he turned it down and never arranged the meeting Neff asked with the Iowa senator.

A secondary conflict involved Neff's testimony he made only one visit to Des Moines. Goodwin said there were two.

Witnesses listed for today's session include President Howard B. Keck of the Superior Oil Co. of California, who provided the money for the proffered campaign funds; Elmer Patman of Austin, Tex., lawyer for Superior; Jarvis Davenport, Western campaign manager for Case in South Dakota; and E. J. Kahler, business manager of the Sioux Falls Daily Argus-Leader, with whom Neff left the $2,500 intended for Case.

Miss Lucy Goes To Court In Alabama Racial Squabble

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. —Autherine Lucy today renews her court struggle to crack Alabama's rigid segregation barriers.

For Federal Judge H. Hobart Grooms the basic question is whether the 26-year-old Negro, a former schoolteacher, should be returned to the all-white University of Alabama campus at Tuscaloosa. A mob drove her off the campus Feb. 6.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles—who says his foreign policy combines "enlightened self-interest" and "missionary spirit"—faces the endless dilemma of trying to solve one problem without making another one worse.

He has to worry not only about foreign affairs—like keeping the Russians away from the Egyptians—but also local affairs, like cotton farmers and votes in Congress, when they affected the foreign field.

These two fields can get pretty tangled, and they just did.

Tuesday Secretary of Agriculture Benson, with White House and State Department approval, announced the government will sell some of its surplus cotton abroad at cut-rate prices. Whether this drives Egypt closer to Russia remains to be seen.

The announcement came just as the Senate was debating President Eisenhower's new farm program and some legislators were blaming the administration for "failure" to work harder to get rid of cotton and other farm surpluses.

The government, which artificially keeps up the American cotton price at home by taking cotton off the farmers' hands when it falls below a certain price, now has 12 million bales in which it has invested two billion dollars.

At once the Egyptian Embassy criticized Benson's announcement as a "very unfortunate step at this time." Egypt is not only in the cotton business too but has a big surplus and depends almost entirely on cotton sales for its foreign income.

If American cotton sold competitively on the world market cuts into the Egyptians' sales, they may be forced to do more business with Russia, which has shown a willingness to accept Egyptian cotton in exchange for things Egypt needs.

Yet, the United States doesn't want Egypt or any other Middle Eastern country to get closer to Russia. This country just came out on the short end, diplomatically, of an Egyptian - Russian deal.

Recently, when Egypt asked the United States to sell it arms, this country, as Dulles has explained, wanted cash. Egypt is short on American dollars and couldn't pay the price. So it bartered some of its cotton with the Communists for arms.

Since the Egyptians sold their cotton to Russia, this country has been pushing hard the sale of

News Media Eyed In Carolina Bill

35-Year-Old Book Payment Declined

Bob Jones, librarian at Colorado State College of Education, said the check came from Kentucky but he declined to identify the one-time student.

"A novel over 35 years old might well have been discarded by now anyhow," Jones wrote in returning the check, "and I'm afraid my conscience would bother me if I accepted your money."

American cotton abroad. As a result the Egyptians may be puzzled by Dulles' statements about "self-interest" and the "missionary spirit."

In his first broadcast to the American public in 1953 Dulles said his foreign policy would be based on "enlightened self-interest." Later, and again in a broadcast last Sunday, he added these ideas:

"We need to recapture the spirit which animated our missionaries, doctors, educators, and merchants who during the last century went throughout the world carrying the benefits of a new war of life."

"For the most part these persons were not seeking to make money for themselves . . . What they sought . . . and gained was the unique joy that comes from creating and sharing."

He said it would be "tragic" if Americans now "became so attracted by mercenary combinations, by the lure of the market place, that they lost the missionary spirit."

Chief Says Tough To Apprehend Those Selling Liquor To Minors

Although the city of Circleville is doing all it can to curb the sale of liquor to minors, according to Police Chief Elmer Merriman, not much can be done to apprehend the violators who supply them with the intoxicants.

"Every now and then we pick up a youngster who is drunk," the chief said, "but trying to find out where he got the liquor is tough. Although you have to be 21 to get whiskey, you can get 3.2 beer when you are 18."

"And you can sure get just as drunk on 3.2 beer as you can on whiskey. But it might take a little longer."

Outlining a new three-phase program to stop such sales, Ohio Liquor Control Director William C. Bryant cited specific sections of law under which the department can require a purchaser to swear he is of legal age.

The plan comes under "phase two" of the program—the requirement being that the purchase whose age is in question takes an oath to attest he is of legal age and signs the back of the affidavit form. This plan is now in effect.

THE LIQUOR store manager or clerk who has administered the oath then places his signature under that of the purchaser.

Two sections of Ohio law make the plan possible, Director Bryant pointed out. The first provides that the department "may delegate to any of its agents or employees any power of investigation which the department possesses." The second provides that "for the purpose of any . . . investigation . . . the director or any of the agents of the department designated in writing for that purpose may administer . . . oaths."

"We can issue written authorization to any store employee on this topic of age," Bryant said. "If a person comes in, who appears to be in the early 20's or younger, the employee will first ask for proof of age. A driver's license is best."

If the potential purchaser has no

driver's license, or other suitable proof, he will take the oath that he is 21 and sign the affidavit. "It just takes as long," the director said, "as it takes to sign his name once again."

To deter the unlawful purchaser who is not of legal age, evidence of "phase one" of the new plan will confront him on the liquor store counter. A white placard, strikingly printed in red, warns: are forbidden to buy or handle intoxicating liquor (penalty $25-$100). You must sign your name to your purchase order and may be required to swear to it. False swearing is a penitentiary offense. If you are under 21, don't make a purchase here."

Phase three, when introduced, will eliminate even the simple procedure of the oath and extra signature for purchasers who are of legal age. Under the plan, the Liquor Control Department will issue to anyone who submits acceptable proof a card attesting he is 21 or

Ohio Timber Volume Said On Increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio has enough timber standing in its forests to build a five-room frame house for every person living in Cleveland and Cincinnati.

And that volume is increasing at a rate equivalent to 27,500 additional frame houses a year, says the Ohio Forest Industries Committee of Chillicothe.

The facts are among the forest statistics listed in a booklet, "Ohio Forest Facts," just published by the committee, state sponsor of the tree farm program. George L. Snowden of The Mead Corp., Chillicothe, heads the committee.

The report said Ohio's 5.4 million acres of forest area, covering 21 per cent of the state's land, help support a vast forest products industry which manufactures wood products valued at a billion dollars annually.

Most of the state's forest land is in small private holdings owned by some 150,000 people. The booklet says long-range forest management to assure continued crops of timber is gaining in Ohio. At present, there are 395 tree farms in Ohio, comprising 98,000 acres of "well-managed forest land," the committee said.

TWIN-TRIGGERED

for double-action
take-off

(Have you tried the new Variable Pitch Dynaflo?*)

THIS is something you'll find only in a 1956 Buick.

And we think this action is so exciting, you ought to come in for a sampling before another sun sets.

For Buick's new Variable Pitch Dynaflo is more than just the smoothest, the sweetest, the most responsive transmission yet developed.

It's quick and it's nimble — it's a gas-saver and a great safety factor—the most thrilling safety measure on the American scene today.

When we say twin-triggered, we mean just that.

You move the first trigger the moment you press the gas pedal no more than an inch.

That nudge taps a fraction of the mighty power in Buick's big 322-cubic-inch V8 engine. That nudge gives you quick new getaway response. That nudge brings you all the power and snap and performance you need for normal driving and cruising. And since all this is at only part throttle, your gas mileage goes up substantially.

Then comes the next trigger — when you need all-out acceleration for an emergency safety-surge.

You just floor the pedal—and that switches the pitch of this airplane-principled transmission.

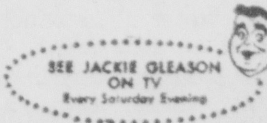

Instantly, you're at full-power take-off—and it's like a second getaway cutting in — a thrill and a safety sweep like nothing you've ever experienced before in an earthbound vehicle.

Surely you owe yourself the treat, the twin thrills, the deep satisfaction and just the sheer fun hours that go with driving the best Buick yet.

Why not come in tomorrow and match up the words with the action?

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles—who says his foreign policy combines "enlightened self-interest" and "missionary spirit"—faces the endless dilemma of trying to solve one problem without making another one worse.

He has to worry not only about foreign affairs—like keeping the Russians away from the Egyptians—but also local affairs, like cotton farmers and votes in Congress, when they affected the foreign field.

These two fields can get pretty tangled, and they just did.

Tuesday Secretary of Agriculture Benson, with White House and State Department approval, announced the government will sell some of its surplus cotton abroad at cut-rate prices. Whether this drives Egypt closer to Russia remains to be seen.

The announcement came just as the Senate was debating President Eisenhower's new farm program and some legislators were blaming the administration for "failure" to work harder to get rid of cotton and other farm surpluses.

The government, which artificially keeps up the American cotton price at home by taking cotton off the farmers' hands when it falls below a certain price, now has 12 million bales in which it has invested two billion dollars.

At once the Egyptian Embassy criticized Benson's announcement as a "very unfortunate step at this time." Egypt is not only in the cotton business too but has a big surplus and depends almost entirely on cotton sales for its foreign income.

If American cotton sold competitively on the world market cuts into the Egyptians' sales, they may be forced to do more business with Russia, which has shown a willingness to accept Egyptian cotton in exchange for things Egypt needs.

Yet, the United States doesn't want Egypt or any other Middle Eastern country to get closer to Russia. This country just came out on the short end, diplomatically, of an Egyptian - Russian deal.

Recently, when Egypt asked the United States to sell it arms, this country, as Dulles has explained, wanted cash. Egypt is short on American dollars and couldn't pay the price. So it bartered some of its cotton with the Communists for arms.

Since the Egyptians sold their cotton to Russia, this country has been pushing hard the sale of

News Media Eyed In Carolina Bill

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP)—The South Carolina House Judiciary Committee says it plans to introduce a bill that would require newspapers, magazines, radio and television stations to file a list of ownership sources with the secretary of state.

Said State Rep. Lake, a member of the committee: "The thinking of a lot of people is reflected by what they read and hear and in so many cases the editorial policies of a newspaper or other news media is set by outside for Northern interests which do not reflect the thinking of the Southern people."

35-Year-Old Book Payment Declined

GREELEY, Colo. (AP)—A former student who mailed $5 for a library novel she borrowed — and failed to return—35 years ago is getting her money back.

Bob Jones, librarian at Colorado State College of Education, said the check came from Kentucky but he declined to identify the one-time student.

"A novel over 35 years old might well have been discarded by now anyhow," Jones wrote in returning the check, "and I'm afraid my conscience would bother me if I accepted your money."

American cotton abroad. As a result the Egyptians may be puzzled by Dulles' statements about "self-interest" and the "missionary spirit."

In his first broadcast to the American public in 1953 Dulles said his foreign policy would be based on "enlightened self-interest." Later, and again in a broadcast last Sunday, he added these ideas:

"We need to recapture the spirit which animated our missionaries, doctors, educators, and merchants who during the last century went throughout the world carrying the benefits of a new war of life."

"For the most part these persons were not seeking to make money for themselves . . . What they sought . . . and gained was the unique joy that comes from creating and sharing."

He said it would be "tragic" if Americans now "became so attracted by mercenary combinations, by the lure of the market place, that they lost the missionary spirit."

LABOR'S QUARRELS

THERE HAVE been predictions that the AFL-CIO merger is the forerunner of an American labor party with good chances of winning national elections. But details of battling at the Miami Beach meeting of the executive council of the merged organizations suggest that such a party would be split down the middle just as the Republicans and Democrats are.

For 20 years the two labor organizations fought bitter jurisdictional battles. These are dying slowly, if at all, following the marital vows.

United Auto Workers and the building trades unions are hotly disputing jurisdiction at several points. The UAW intimates meddlers are about to get hurt if they don't watch out.

On the political front there is no agreement. Dave Beck of the big, aggressive Teamsters Union voted for Dewey in 1948 and Eisenhower in 1952. He says his organization will support whomever it pleases. Maurice Hutchinson, president of the Carpenters Union, agrees with him.

Beck also tells critics of his recent merger with the red-tinted Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers to go chase themselves.

There are ideological cleavages on desegregation in public schools, subsidies for steamship lines, public power and other matters. How Meany and Reuther can resolve these differences at the top remains to be revealed.

If there is continued lack of harmony, the tendency of several unions will be to pull away from the giant organization and operate independently. Such action would act as a deterrent to united political action and a big new political party in the United States.

GIANT LOBSTERS

IN WHAT IS described by a reporter for lobster 'strike' on the Atlantic Coast since the Pilgrims found the waters teeming with the critters in 1620, a government trawler hauled in specimens weighing as much as 20 pounds. They were found half a mile down 120 miles offshore.

Boston chefs who have tried the meat of the aged crustaceans say it is tough and can be used only in "cutlets, croquettes and things like that." No one will attempt to estimate the age of the critters, but a lobster attains a weight of one pound at the age of five years.

The government ship "Delaware" made the find where the Continental Shelf dips rapidly toward the ocean floor. Commercial fishermen rarely get their nets down half the depth of the ocean there and this is virgin territory which may result in an increase in available seafood supplies.

OLDSTERS SMARTER?

EGO OF THE current middle aged generation was given a lift by Dr. L. L. Clifton, administrative dean of Oklahoma City University. The average intelligence of college students today is lower than it was 20 years ago, he says.

Dr. Clifton cited figures on Oklahoma City University's records to show that college students of today average a score of 110 in IQ tests, whereas their parents' average score was 120.

If this merely confirms what oldsters have suspected all along, there is a fly in the ointment, so to speak. "It isn't that young folks are not as smart as they were 20 years ago," Dr. Clifton adds, "but so its insulation, heating system and paint.

These Days

Probably the most interesting political novel of this generation is "The Last Hurrah" by Edwin O'Connor. The essential truth of this story is that while fashions change and times give the impression of being different, it is only human interests and necessities that really move in new directions. While it is possible to identify the Bostonians of whom Mr. O'Connor writes, it is also possible to duplicate such personalities in other cities, particularly in New York where I would be more familiar with them.

And in both cities, the struggle for position and power was the same and to a degree remains the same except that the nationalities and religious are different. This tale deals with the Irish-Catholic conquest of Boston and ends when the younger generation becomes less cognizant of the reasons for the earlier struggle and drops the old leadership.

In the large Northeastern cities, the Irish were usually followed by a large Jewish migration. Up to the time of Hitler, the Jews were rapidly assimilated in the indigenous community, usually taking their places in the political life of both parties. In New York, for instance, up to the time that Al Smith became Governor, most of the Jews who entered politics were Republicans and reformers.

This was largely a German-Jewish community under which term must be included Hungarian and Bohemian Jews. The Russian and Polish Jewish communities came later and had to struggle for a place in the life of the community 'not only against their predecessors but against the opulent German-Jewish community which, at the turn of the century, were unfriendly to the new arrivals although they did support a large number of charitable and educational institutions.

Many of the leading charitable and educational institutions. Many of the leading personalities of the German-Jewish community achieved notable positions in American political life; some of them intermarried and their families have disappeared from the Jewish community.

It is interesting to note that no Jew was ever elected Mayor of New York and that no Jew has been head of Tammany Hall. On the other hand, Samuel Koenig did become the leader of Republican Party in New York, although it must be admitted that that party had ceased to be very important in this area at that time or since.

The new group to follow the Jews is the Italian which achieved leadership, particularly in the Democratic Party in a surprisingly short time. Italians play politics very differently from the Irish or the Jews. They are not given to forming tight groups that fight for each other.

Fiorello La Guardia was a Republican, Socialist, a New Dealer all at the same time. Vito Marcantonio must have been a Republican at one time when he closely followed La Guardia. He became a proponent of Mussolini and then an associate of the Communists, if not a party functionary. Neither La Guardia nor Marcantonio represented the emerging Italian community in New York. Perhaps, the first important leader was the late Generoso Pope, publisher of the leading Italian newspaper in the United States, "Il Progresso."

It was not, however, until Carmine DeSapio appeared on the scene that the Italians moved into a primary position. DeSapio emerged in the orthodox political manner, from District Leader, to County Chairman to National Committeeman.

many more are entering college now that they pull the average down."

What he seems to be saying is that in Pop's day fewer dum specimens continued on to college.

It would be a welcome change to see a dove of peace coming out of Russia that didn't look cuckoo.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE
LINDA had a very fine story to carry home to Jasper—though he must be restrained from rewarding Ann! Could Linda make him know the exquisite essence of that fine story? That Ann felt—and had said—that Linda was an understanding part of the Thornton clan, that she too would bristle defensively—and she would! There was the beautiful part! Linda felt as if a crown had been set upon her head, an accolade awarded!

She felt so good that she wished she hadn't to bother with her car. She wanted to walk—Oh, yes! Her tires needed changing around. That was excuse enough; she would leave her car at the garage, cut across to the hospital and walk home with Alan, or ride with him. In any case, she'd see him, and talk to him. Maybe even tell him—Her step quickened as she thought.

So eagerly impatient was she that she burr breathlessly into Miss Adamant's office.

"Dr. Ernst is with him," said Laura. The secretary spoke almost indifferently. "But go on in—"

The inner door was closed, but the latch had not caught; the light pressure of Linda's knuckles pushed the crack wide enough for her to see—and hear—

The two men did not look around. Alan was sitting behind his desk, Rupert Ernst stood before it, facing him. Both men wore hospital whites—duck pants, t-shirt, jacket, white shoes. Linda had never before, she thought, seen Rupert in whites. He was very handsome in them, smooth and slick.

Alan's garments were spotless, but they looked as if they had done a day's work, just as his face showed lines of thought and concern—and anger.

Even as Linda touched the door she heard Rupert's accented voice telling the Chief Surgeon that he would like to resign his position at the hospital.

And Alan was looking up at him, coldly. "I'm sorry that you feel that way, Ernst," he said icily, "because, of course, you may not resign. You must stay here and complete the year agreed upon."

Rupert's back and head drew upward. "But, my dear Doctor! That is not what I want to do!"

"Who in hell," cried Alan loudly, "does what he wants to do!"

These days! So you don't want to stay here! Well, I don't want to stay here, either! He got to his feet, and leaned toward the shorter man. "If I could do what I want to do, I'd be in the Army—perhaps over where my nephew was killed—perhaps down the road here at the fort. But I'd be in uniform if your rule were in effect. I want to go into service! Except for being a specialist, I've never wanted anything so much and so keenly."

"But I am not a specialist, and I am not in uniform! It was argued to me that I had an obligation to my family, to what my father had done for me in building this hospital..."

Ma'am was the one who had argued those things to him. Linda stepped inside the room, and closed the door behind her. "You should have gone away," she said softly.

Rupert's glance upon her was bright. Alan turned more slowly to look at her.

She spoke, still quietly. "Why, really, did you stay, Alan?"

"Because—I thought I was doing the right thing."

"Then," said Linda firmly, "you did do the right thing."

For a moment their eyes held, then—as if with renewed vigor, new faith in his position—Alan swung back upon Rupert Ernst.

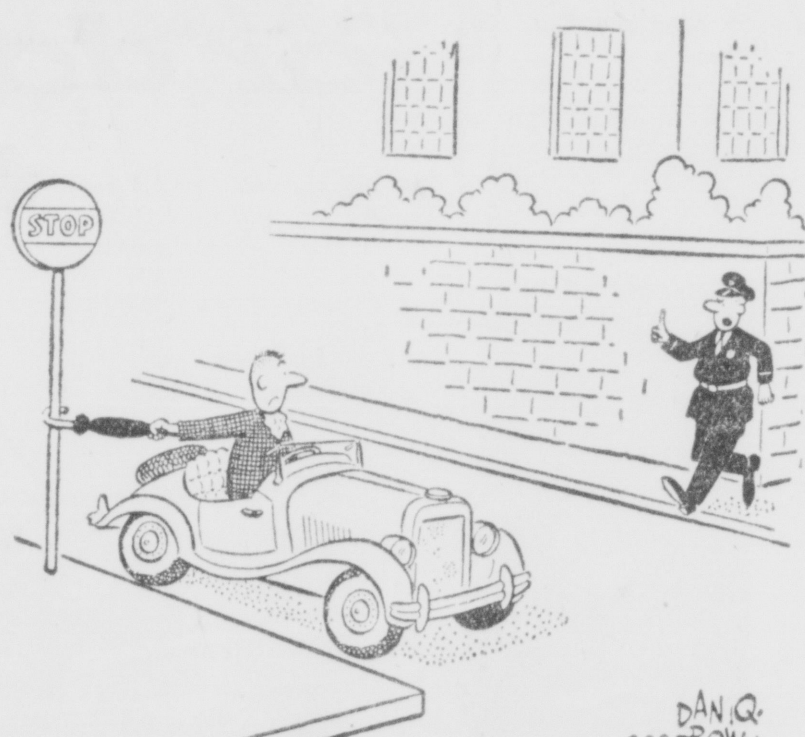

"You are not going to leave, Dr. Ernst? His usually soft, drawing voice snapped the words like a whip, his eyes were lighting green with anger. "You are going to stay right here, and do the job set for you. You came here to learn to be an American citizen and an American doctor."

The citizenship, I know, means little to you except that you can not be an American doctor without having it. You came here for a year, you've been here for three months—long enough to discover that this is no easy job which has been set before you. I knew, —t first sight of you, that it would not be easy. I knew—I know now—that you could never take the place of an American doctor! But I said I'd try to do as good a job as possible with you. And now you're going to try to do your part. I plan to see to it that it's a good try!"

LABOR'S QUARRELS

THERE HAVE been predictions that the AFL-CIO merger is the forerunner of an American labor party with good chances of winning national elections. But details of battling at the Miami Beach meeting of the executive council of the merged organizations suggest that such a party would be split down the middle just as the Republicans and Democrats are.

For 20 years the two labor organizations fought bitter jurisdictional battles. These are dying slowly, if at all, following the marital vows.

United Auto Workers and the building trades unions are hotly disputing jurisdiction at several points. The UAW intimates meddlers are going to get hurt if they don't watch out.

On the political front there is no agreement. Dave Beck of the big, aggressive Teamsters Union voted for Dewey in 1948 and Eisenhower in 1952. He says his organization will support whomever it pleases. Maurice Hutchinson, president of the Carpenters Union, agrees with him.

Beck also tells critics of his recent merger with the red-tinted Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers to go chase themselves.

There are ideological cleavages on desegregation in public schools, subsidies for steamship lines, public power and other matters. How Meany and Reuther can resolve these differences at the top remains to be revealed.

If there is continued lack of harmony, the tendency of several unions will be to pull away from the giant organization and operate independently. Such action would act as a deterrent to united political action and a big new political party in the United States.

GIANT LOBSTERS

IN WHAT IS described by a reporter for lobster 'strike' on the Atlantic Coast since the Pilgrims found the waters teeming with the critters in 1620," a government trawler hauled in specimens weighing as much as 20 pounds. They were found half a mile down 120 miles offshore.

Boston chefs who have tried the meat of the aged crustaceans say it is tough and can be used only in "cutlets, croquettes and things like that." No one will attempt to estimate the age of the critters, but a lobster attains a weight of one pound at the age of five years.

The government ship "Delaware" made the find where the Continental Shelf dips rapidly toward the ocean floor. Commercial fishermen rarely get their nets down half the depth of the ocean there and this is virgin territory which may result in an increase in available seafood supplies.

OLDSTERS SMARTER?

EGO OF THE current middle aged generation was given a lift by Dr. L. L. Clifton, administrative dean of Oklahoma City University. The average intelligence of college students today is lower than it was 20 years ago, he says.

Dr. Clifton cited figures on Oklahoma City University's records to show that college students of today average a score of 110 in IQ tests, whereas their parents' average score was 120.

If this merely confirms what oldsters have suspected all along, there is a fly in the ointment, so to speak. "It isn't that young folks are not as smart as they were 20 years ago," Dr. Clifton adds, "but so

True Man Brotherhood Hit

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Who should control the spending of the family income—husband or wife?

It is generally believed that women boss the spending of about 85 per cent of the expenditures in the American home.

A revolutionary new organization, "The Brotherhood of the True Man," has been formed by publicist Carl Ruoff to challenge this figure and spread the doctrine that the American male is and ought to be master of his own paycheck.

Operating under the slogan, "Never Underestimate the Power of a Man," the organization cites a magazine survey to make the following claims:

1. That 4 out of 5 men buy the roofing for their home, and 7 out of 10 picked out and purchase

- its insulation, heating system and paint.
2. That 4 out of 5 American men select and buy the car they drive and the gasoline to power it.
3. That 9 out of 10 select and buy these automobile items: anti freeze, oil, tires, car polish and spark plugs.
4. That 4 out of 5 select and buy the liquor, beer and wine consumed in their home.
5. That 4 out of 5 buy their own suit, hats, shoes, cigars and razor blades.
6. That 9 out of 10 buy their own cigars, 7 out of 10 their own shaving cream.
7. That 3 out of 5 pick the brand of shirts they wear, and 1 out of 2 actually go to the store themselves and purchase them.

Ruoff has invited me to join

George E. Sokolsky's These Days

Probably the most interesting political novel of this generation is "The Last Hurrah" by Edwin O'Connor. The essential truth of this story is that while fashions change and times give the impression of being different, it is only human interests and necessities that really move in new directions. While it is possible to identify the Bostonians of whom Mr. O'Connor writes, it is also possible to duplicate such personalities in other cities, particularly in New York where I would be more familiar with them.

And in both cities, the struggle for position and power was the same and to a degree remains the same except that the nationalities and religious are different. This tale deals with the Irish-Catholic conquest of Boston and ends when the younger generation becomes less cognizant of the reasons for the earlier struggle and drops the old leadership.

In the large Northeastern cities, the Irish were usually followed by a large Jewish migration. Up to the time of Hitler, the Jews were rapidly assimilated in the indigenous community, usually taking their places in the political life of both parties. In New York, for instance, up to the time that Al Smith became Governor, most of the Jews who entered politics were Republicans and reformers.

This was largely a German-Jewish community under which term must be included Hungarian and Bohemian Jews. The Russian and Polish Jewish communities came later and had to struggle for a place in the life of the community not only against their predecessors but against the opulent German-Jewish community which, at the turn of the century, were unfriendly to the new arrivals although they did support a large number of charitable and educational institutions.

Many of the leading charitable and educational institutions.

Many of the leading personalities of the German-Jewish community achieved notable positions in American political life; some of them intermarried and their families have disappeared from the Jewish community.

It is interesting to note that no Jew was ever elected Mayor of New York and that no Jew has been head of Tammany Hall. On the other hand, Samuel Koenig did become the leader of Republican Party in New York, although it must be admitted that that party had ceased to be very important in this area at that time or since.

The new group to follow the Jews is the Italian which achieved leadership, particularly in the Democratic Party in a surprisingly short time. Italians play politics very differently from the Irish or the Jews. They are not given to forming tight groups that fight for each other.

Fiorello La Guardia was a Republican, Socialist, a New Dealer all at the same time. Vito Marcantonio must have been a Republican at one time when he closely followed La Guardia. He became a proponent of Mussolini and then an associate of the Communists, if not a party functionary. Neither La Guardia nor Marcantonio represented the emerging Italian community in New York. Perhaps, the first important leader was the late Generoso Pope, publisher of the leading Italian newspaper in the United States, "II Progresso."

It was not, however, until Carmine DeSapio appeared on the scene that the Italians moved into a primary position. DeSapio emerged in the orthodox political manner, from District Leader, to County Chairman to National Committeeman.

many more are entering college now that they pull the average down."

What he seems to be saying is that in Pop's day fewer dum specimens continued on to college.

It would be a welcome change to see a dove of peace coming out of Russia that didn't look cuckoo.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

LINDA had a very fine story to carry home to Jasper—though he must be restrained from rewarding Ann! Could Linda make him know the exquisite essence of that fine story? That Ann felt—and had said!—that Linda was an understanding part of the Thornton clan, that she too would bristle defensively—and she would! There was the beautiful part! Linda felt as if a crown had been set upon her head, an accolade awarded!

She felt so good that she wished she hadn't to bother with her car. She wanted to walk—Oh, yes! Her tires needed changing around. That was excuse enough; she would leave her car at the garage, cut across to the hospital and walk home with Alan, or ride with him. In any case, she'd see him, and talk to him. Maybe even tell him—Her step quickened.

So eagerly impatient was she that she burst breathlessly into Miss Adamant's office.

"Dr. Ernst is with him," said Laura. The secretary spoke almost indifferently. "But go on in—"

The inner door was closed, but the latch had not caught; the light pressure of Linda's knuckles pushed the crack wide enough for her to see—and hear—

The two men did not look around. Alan was sitting behind his desk, Rupert Ernst stood before it, facing him. Both men wore hospital whites—duck pants, t-shirt, jacket, white shoes. Linda had never before, she thought, seen Rupert in whites. He was very handsome in them, smooth and slick.

Alan's garments were spotless, but they looked as if they had done a day's work, just as his face showed lines of thought and concern—and anger.

Even as Linda touched the door she heard Rupert's accented voice telling the Chief Surgeon that he would like to resign his position at the hospital.

And Alan was looking up at him, coldly. "I'm sorry that you feel that way, Ernst," he said icily, "because, of course, you may not resign. You must stay here and complete the year agreed upon."

Rupert's back and head drew upward. "But, my dear Doctor! That is not what I want to do!"

"Who in hell," cried Alan loudly, "does what he wants to do,?"

Eastern Star Group Plans Initiation For March 13th

Chapter Convenes With 30 Present

Members were asked to either bring good used clothing to the next meeting or take it to one of the committee members.

Today's Raincoats Give Bright Look For Rainy Days

Don't be a drip on a rainy day! When the weather turns dismal, there's many a damsel gets out her oldest dress, dons a worn coat, whips out a tattered umbrella, ties a wilted kerchief 'round her head and sails forth looking like something salvaged from a rummage sale.

A bad day is depressing enough without your adding to the overcast. Instead of wearing out your old clothes when it rains, invest in colorful, practical rain gear.

Certainly raincoats are more attractive than ever. They come in pastels, in vivid reds and greens, in silvery blues, in bold plaids and sporty checks.

Skip the kerchief under the chin unless it's a style especially becoming to you. If your face is round and full, it's not. Instead, invest in a rain hat.

Tie in your umbrella so it's color-coordinated with your raincoat. Don't make it a hit-or-miss proposition, grab the first umbrella you find in the closet. Make it part of the costume.

When it comes to rubbers, look for some of the cute styles around. Some are trimmed with little bows in contrasting colors.

No matter the weather, the good-looks forecast should always be: bright and beautiful.

Garden Club Meet Features Program On Conservation

Mrs. Joseph Vanmeter of Chillicothe gave a lecture on Conservation at the meeting of the Mt. Pleasant Garden Club. Mrs. W. R. Sunderland was hostess to the group.

Members answered the rollcall by reading a poem in which flowers or gardens were mentioned.

"Wise use without waste," Mrs. Vanmeter stated was the meaning of conservation in relation to natural resources. An example of this is the tree farms, which selective cutting and replacement of timber is practiced by the landowner.

Mrs. Vanmeter pointed out that there were seven departments in the State Department of Natural Resources. She named Wildlife, Parks, Mineral, Land and Soil, Shore Erosion, Water and Forestry, as the seven departments, following which she read and discussed related questions.

She suggested that food and shelter be provided for wildlife whenever possible as these are the most important factors in their survival. She then urged the group to use every opportunity to advo-

Suggestions For Meatless Lenten Meals Are Given

Meatless meals can be made more interesting if macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles are served in combination with fish. If you don't know how good the combination can be, try some of the following dishes during the Lenten season.

Spaghetti with scallops and mustard sauce is one example.

To serve four, sprinkle one pound scallops with ½ tsp. salt. Fry in shallow hot fat until golden brown.

Melt two tbsp. butter over low heat. Add tbsp. flour and blend.

cate conservation and especially to interest young people in nature study. Mrs. Vanmeter stated that children who are actively interested in plant and animal life are less apt to become delinquents.

The group was presented pamphlets on farm ponds, forestry, etc. They were reminded of the one-day nature field trips sponsored by the Nature Study Campers, an affiliate of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. James Tootle Jr. received first place for the exhibits of dish gardens. Second place went to Mrs. Leo Davis and third was won by Mrs. Helen Sunderland.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Tootle, served refreshments.

The March meeting will be a dinner-meeting. Announcement of the place will be told later.

Add one cup light cream and cook until thickened, stirring constantly.

Blend together a tbsp. dry mustard and two tbsp. water. Add mustard mixture to cream sauce with ½ tsp. salt, mixing thoroughly.

Prepare eight ounces spaghetti according to package directions.

Arrange cooked spaghetti on platter. Top with scallops and mustard sauce.

Oyster noodle stew is an ideal Lenten supper special.

Garden Club Meet Features Program On Conservation

Mrs. Joseph Vanmeter of Chillicothe gave a lecture on Conservation at the meeting of the Mt. Pleasant Garden Club. Mrs. W. R. Sunderland was hostess to the group.

Members answered the rollcall by reading a poem in which flowers or gardens were mentioned.

“Wise use without waste,” Mrs. Vanmeter stated was the meaning of conservation in relation to natural resources. An example of this is the tree farms, which selective cutting and replacement of timber is practiced by the landowner.

Mrs. Vanmeter pointed out that there were seven departments in the State Department of Natural Resources. She named Wildlife, Parks, Mineral, Land and Soil, Shore Erosion, Water and Forestry, as the seven departments, following which she read and discussed related questions.

She suggested that food and shelter be provided for wildlife whenever possible as these are the most important factors in their survival. She then urged the group to use every opportunity to advocate conservation and especially to interest young people in nature study. Mrs. Vanmeter stated that children who are actively interested in plant and animal life are less apt to become delinquents.

The group was presented pamphlets on farm ponds, forestry, etc. They were reminded of the one-day nature field trips sponsored by the Nature Study Campers, an affiliate of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs.

Mrs. James Tootle Jr. received first place for the exhibits of dish gardens. Second place went to Mrs. Leo Davis and third was won by Mrs. Helen Sunderland.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Tootle, served refreshments.

The March meeting will be a dinner-meeting. Announcement of the place will be told later.

Suggestions For Meatless Lenten Meals Are Given

Meatless meals can be made more interesting if macaroni, spaghetti and egg noodles are served in combination with fish. If you don't know how good the combination can be, try some of the following dishes during the Lenten season.

Spaghetti with scallops and mustard sauce is one example.

To serve four, sprinkle one pound scallops with ½ tsp. salt. Fry in shallow hot fat until golden brown.

Melt two tbsp. butter over low heat. Add tsp. flour and blend.

Blend together a tbsp. dry mustard and two tbsp. water. Add mustard mixture to cream sauce with ½ tsp. salt, mixing thoroughly.

Prepare eight ounces spaghetti according to package directions.

Arrange cooked spaghetti on platter. Top with scallops and mustard sauce.

Oyster noodle stew is an ideal Lenten supper special.

To prepare six servings, melt ¼ cup butter or margarine and add one pint oysters. Cook over low heat until edges begin to curl.

Combine two cups water and 1½ quarts milk. Heat to boiling point. Add eight ounces (four cups) medium egg noodles gradually, so that milk-water mixture continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender.

Add 1½ cups light cream and oysters, and season with salt and pepper to taste. Heat to serving temperature.

Macaroni and shrimp combine for another supper special.

To prepare four to six servings, melt three tbsp. butter or margarine over low heat. Add two tbsp. finely chopped onion, ½ cup each chopped celery and chopped canned pimientos; cook ten minutes.

Add 2½ cups tomato juice, 1½

Some Business Jittery Over U. S. Politics

Observers Divided On Effect Election Plays In Economy

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Elections — and election uncertainties — always give business a certain amount of the jitters. And this year the stock market has been particularly quick to respond to political predictions.

But the old belief that business — as distinct from stock trading — slows down in an election year to await results may have to be revived. In several of the more recent election years the opposite has happened.

And while many businessmen this year are particularly nervous lest something happen politically that would rock the boat and upset the current neat balance of good times, probably as many others believe that business activity will continue at a high clip despite all the political hullabaloo in coming months.

The President's decision should clear the air — as far as stock trading is concerned. But it's effect on business should be very slight for awhile, many businessmen hold. Their argument is that business activity is already so high that it couldn't go much higher right away no matter how "good" the news seems. Nor could "bad" news have immediate effect.

As the political fortunes see-saw in coming months there could be considerable changing in that intangible thing called "business confidence." But if that brings a shift in business planning for the future, the effects of the new planning wouldn't show up in the general economy for months.

Some businessmen, however, are a little more sensitive this election year than others. They feel that business has been on trial politically as well as in the market place, since many business leaders were taken to Washington for the avowed aim of giving the government the advantage of business ideas. They are, therefore, quite anxious about the electorate's reaction and judgment.

Others stress that in this particular election year a long-lived business boom is especially dependent on confidence.

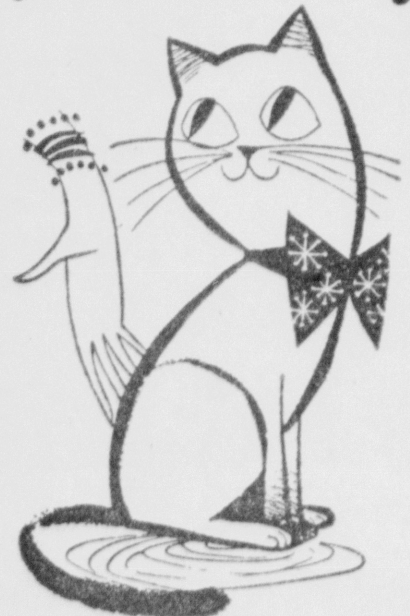

But others point out that increasing of recent years the presidential election has given little evidence of being the important factor in which way business activity went.

They note that stock prices rose after the elections of Coolidge and Hoover and after the first, second and fourth elections of Roosevelt. Stock prices turned down after the election of Truman but rose again by the end of that year. Stock prices were rising with the Eisenhower election but later started a long slide downward, only to begin climbing again a year later.

Farm Leader Fights High Support Idea

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A farm leader today urged Congress to reverse action of the Senate Agriculture Committee and "knock out" the committee's recommendation to bring back 90 per cent mandatory farm price supports.

W. N. Woods of Maumee, president of the cooperative association, warned that high rigid supports would "continue to pile up farm surpluses, without regard to demand." He addressed the 23rd annual meeting of Farm Bureau Co-operators here.

Woods declared high supports are products of "war-time," designed to stimulate farm production.

The Maumee grain farmer said he saw real merit in the proposed "soil fertility bank plan," and that he believes the plan provides "an opportunity for starting to reduce existing surpluses, and at the same time, preventing a disastrous slump in farm income."

Eight Ohio county Farm Bureau Co-operators were honored for carrying on the "best over-all co-operative program." Named tops in Ohio was the Adams County Farm Bureau Cooperative, Cherry Fork. Second and third place honors went to the Henry County Co-operative, Napoleon, and the Hancock County Co-operative, Findlay, respectively. Other district winners were Cuyahoga, Mahoning, Auglaize, Scioto, and Muskingum counties.

Gadget Replaces 40 Human Aides

OXNARD, Calif. (AP)—Six electronic color-sorting machines, capable of separating as many as 1,128,000 lemons daily into five color classifications, have replaced 40 human fruit graders here.

Incorporated in the machines are photo tubes and memory units which register the five degrees of color in marketable lemons. Fruit passes through beams from the tubes, then drops onto separate conveyor belts according to its degree of ripeness, denoted by color.

Lima Hospital Aide Handed Dismissal

COLUMBUS (AP)—Byron H. Dershem, guard-attendant at Lima State Hospital, has been removed from his job because he did not resign when he became an active candidate for Allen County treasurer.

The order of removal, effective last Sunday, was made known by the state civil service commission which received it from Dr. R. E. Bushong, hospital superintendent. Dershem earned $276 a month and was appointed June 16, 1954.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have been married for seven years to a wonderful girl. She is perfect as a wife and a fine mother; and yet there is something lacking in our relationship that has me defeated. It is hard to explain but I shall try to be clear.

From the very beginning of our marriage I have done my utmost to provide faithfully for my family; and to make my wife happy. I have never assumed that the man rules. We have acted as partners always, and helped one another.

A few years ago my wife started to change. At first I made all sorts of excuses to myself for her; but the change has persisted and become serious. Her general attitude indicates dislike and resentment of me specifically—not only in private, but also in public and in the presence of friends. Some of our friends who notice her attitude are drifting away—"too busy" to visit us any more.

All Depends On Her
Irma (I will call her) is so deceiving at times. She comments on anything I say or do. She says I have no conception of what a man's duties are, and that our home would be a real failure if it weren't for her. Believe me, if it weren't for our children (who give my life meaning), I would take the first train out, but that would be a coward's act and certainly wouldn't help matters.

Irma complains constantly that "the kids" drive her crazy and that this kind of life is just too much for her. She says, "Other women have it so easy; at least their husbands make it easy for them." I have heard her say this many times.

Our home has all modern conveniences, so I can't understand her complaints. I help her with the housework and with the children, besides doing a man's work; and still she's unhappy. I don't know what's wrong. I shall be so grateful if you can suggest a solution.

H. Y.
DEAR H. Y.: It seems your wife is resentful of the fact that you don't take the lead in partnership; and that you aren't an outstanding figure in social groups—in the role of "man among men,"—whose status would give her prestige.

She despises your meek docility and flunkey-type helpfulness at home (even while taking advantage of it), because she construes from active duty today.

it to mean that you are being a "good boy" instead of a household head; that you are tagging at her apronstrings, instead of having the bold forcefulness to grab the world by the tail.

In short, what your wife is griping about, in relation to you, is your essentially passive behavior as her partner. Whether she knows it or not, she wishes you were more positive, dominant and unimpeachable. She feels that you lack mature decisive masculine character—the like of which makes a woman feel safe in the shadow thereof.

I think your wife feels that you'd rather be in her shoes than your own, hence her aggravated notion that she is the "strong man" (if any) in the household; and her complaint that this kind of life is just too much for her. That's why work-saving devices, etc., don't cheer her. They can't assuage her instinctive hunger to be really a woman, in relation to a sure-enough man.

The only honest advice one can give you is to get straight with yourself, psychologically — after which you will be better organized to deal effectively with Irma, on a self-respecting basis. You may need some psychiatric guidance, to rouse your inhibited masculinity.

Ashville Extended To Win, 59-57, Over Reynoldsburg

Ashville's unbeaten cagers started in the dark chasm of defeat before coming back with a hard-earned 59-57 Class "B" Central District basketball tournament victory over Reynoldsburg.

Forward Dick Hoover, who led both teams in scoring with 16 markers and who grabbed many of Ashville's defensive rebounds, spelled the difference between victory and defeat in the Tuesday battle played at Capital University in Columbus.

His under-the-basket shot with 1:23 left in the game put the Broncos on in front to stay, 56-55, after the score was tied up six times and the lead changed hands on ten occasions.

The win entitles the Pickaway County champs to battle Johnstown (19-1), Licking County's titleholder, at 7 p. m. Friday night. The Johnstown quintet eliminated Pickaway from further competition Monday night by whipping the Pirates, 61-38.

PICKAWAY COUNTY'S third entry, Jackson, goes into the Central District tourney war at 8:30 tonight, when the Wildcats battle Danville at Capital University. Danville, with a 13-8 mark, is the Knox County tournament runner-up. In the 7 p. m. game, Northwestern (18-3) takes on Iberia (17-8).

In racking up its 19th win, Ashville started out strong, jumping to a 17-10 lead in the first quarter. However, Reynoldsburg came back and knotted the score at 17 by the end of the period.

The second period was close as the way with the score tied up twice and the lead changing hands three times.

Reynoldsburg had plenty of trouble in the first half, losing the ball many times on costly turnovers.

Ashville was having its trouble with its defense. Except for when the score was knotted at 32, Ashville led the entire third period with its biggest margin at 42-37. The canto ended with the Broncos on top, 44-41.

THE TWO teams provided excitement-plus for the overflow crowd in the action-packed fourth frame.

In the final canto, the score was tied up once and the lead changed hands six times, before Hoover's basket put the Broncos in the driver's seat for good.

Bill Parker dropped in a basket for Reynoldsburg to open the final period and make the score 44-43. Ashville's Miller connected for two foul shots making it 46-43. Dan Shively made a free throw and Parker hit for a basket to knot the score at 46. Curry dropped in a free throw to regain the lead for Ashville.

Kenny Brooks fired a long one to give Reynoldsburg the lead for the first time since the second period when he put his team in front, 24-23. Larry Fullen meshed the nets with a beautiful underhand drive shot to win back the lead for Ashville. He followed this up with a charity throw to give Ashville a 50-48 lead.

Brooks dropped through a free throw and Parker made a two-pointer and Reynoldsburg was on top again, 51-50. Shively scored two free throws to up Reynoldsburg's lead to 53-50. Curry tossed in two charity tosses and Hoover connected for two more free throws to regain a shaky 54-53 advantage for Ashville.

GARY BLACKSTONE hit on a basket and Reynoldsburg led 55-54. At this point, Hoover ripped the cords with a basket and Jerry Riegel dropped through two free throws and Ashville held a 58-55 advantage. Shively brought Reynoldsburg to 58-57 with a basket but Riegel ended the scoring with a free throw

In another hair-raising battle, the fighting Shamrocks of Lancaster St. Marys upset the Fairfield County champs, Pleasantville, 65-60, causing pandemonium to break loose and cheer leaders to shed tears.

The shorter St. Marys cagers ball-hawked the taller Pleasantville basketballers all through the game before downing the seventh-seeded quintet.

At Otterbein, Prospect won its 22nd of 23 games with a 67-63 win over Mifflin and Olentangy upped its record to 14-9 with an 82-62 triumph over Mt. Gilead.

Games at Otterbein tonight send Midway (17-7) against Magnetic Springs (14-7) and Fredericktown (20-1) against Liberty Union (13-8).

SEATTLE (P)—University of Washington football followers, who seldom have to really get acquainted with the school's latest coach, were rolling a new name over their tongues today.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (P)—Defending champion Michigan will be the team to chase here Friday and Saturday in the 46th annual running of the Big Ten Conference indoor track meet.

Michigan's talented tracksters have four titlists returning. Middle distance star Pete Gray was a double winner, copping both the 880 and 1,000 yard runs. Don Wallingford ran off with the two mile run. Dave Owen took the shot putt and Mark Booth shared the high jump.

So far this season, Michigan has the top mark in six of the events and placed 11 men among the five best in each event.

Holman Favored To Trip Rowan

MIAMI, Fla. (P)—John Holman of Chicago, the fourth-ranking heavyweight, is a 2-1 favorite to whip Joe Rowan of Philadelphia in a nationally televised 10-round fight at 10 p. m. tonight.

Tigers In Class A Play Tonight; 1 SCOL Team Wins; Three Lose

Circleville's Tigers will try to bolster the sagging South Central Ohio League in Class A basketball tournament play when they meet a tough Columbus South squad tonight. This will be the third game at the Ohio State Fairgrounds Coliseum on Eleventh Ave.

Washington C. H. was the only SCOL team to come off with a victory Tuesday night. The Blue Lions, SCOL champs, won their 12th game in a row by dumping Groveport 74 to 51 in Columbus. WCH will meet Columbus Central on Thursday night.

Down at Lebanon 52-51, Lucasville beat Hillsboro 73-53 and Greenfield bowed to Piketon 45-39. The Tigers, with probably the toughest draw, will be a definite underdog tonight. A victory by the Tigers would be listed as a major upset, as the Bulldogs were second only to Columbus East in the City League there.

CHS, WHICH has a habit of drawing the toughest teams in first round play, have not advanced beyond the opening round in many years. Last year, they drew East; the year before, Newark.

Coach Red Courtney's cagers will be meeting their strongest and tallest opponents of the season. South has two 6' 5" boys in the starting lineup and another one in the ready reserve.

The best the Tigers can muster is 6' 4" sophomore Long Jon Pacher, who has only played reserve ball this season. Senior center tall Walt Sieverts stands 6' 3 1/2", while sophomore, Bill Johnson, is 6' 2". Seniors Jim McConnell, Ralph Jones and junior Dick Banks all touch the 6' mark.

McConnell is the Tigers leading scorer, averaging more than 25 points per game. Last year, Jarvin' Jim was held to only nine markers while senior guard Bobby Wellington stole the show with his long set shots and ended up with 17 points.

In the game against top flight East, the Tigers garnered only three points in the opening period and were never in the running. East went on to the state semifinals before losing out.

THE TIGERS have been hot and cold. On many occasions they have

Dons ChalkUp Win No. 48, Claim All-Time Record

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Coach Phil Woolpert, whose San Francisco Dons have topped the Associated Press college basketball poll all season, must have been looking at five other guys when he got the idea his regulars might be getting stale.

He let them kick up their heels for a change Tuesday night and the Dons frolicked in an 87-49 run-against College of the Pacific—locking up their second straight California Basketball Association title and gaining official entry to the NCAA Tournament for defense of their national championship.

It was San Francisco's 48th consecutive triumph and the 54th in 55 starts, and the school immediately claimed an all-time college record.

The NCAA recognizes a 55-game streak by little Peru (Neb.) State Teachers in the mid-20s as the all-time record. But Dick Blake, Dons' publicity man, said he has a letter from A. G. Wheeler, Peru athletic director, stating the record was against Nebraska teams only and did not represent consecutive victories against all opponents.

Wheeler told The Associated Press, however, that he had no way of knowing for sure whether Peru played outstate teams in the streak—which, he added, he found to be 54 games, not 55.

Woolpert, who has found the winning streak monotonous, announced he would consider the last four game of the regular season as "scrimmages" in way of a warm up for the opening NCAA tourney game against the Pacific Coast Conference champ (probably UCLA, the last team to beat the Dons).

So, instead of pulling his regulars early, he let them romp at will against COP. All America Bill Russell, the 6-10 center, promptly banged in 28 points while playing all but 2 1/4 minutes.

Elsewhere, Southern Methodist became the first team to sweep through the Southwest Conference unbeaten since Texas did it in 1947. An 89-75 romp against Rice did it for the Mustangs, who had sewed up their second straight league crown Saturday.

Texas Tech, though idle, loomed as SMU's probable opening foe in the NCAA as West Texas upset Texas Western 80-79. That left Tech all alone atop the Border Conference and with a chance to clinch the title and NCAA berth against New Mexico A&M tonight.

George Washington, warming up for its bid for a title and NCAA entry in the Southern Conference tournament which opens Thursday clipped Georgetown 93-77, although ace Joe Holup was held to 12 points.

Ashville Extended To Win, 59-57, Over Reynoldsburg

Ashville's unbeaten cagers started in the dark chasm of defeat before coming back with a hard-earned 59-57 Class "B" Central District basketball tournament victory over Reynoldsburg.

Forward Dick Hoover, who led both teams in scoring with 16 markers and who grabbed many of Ashville's defensive rebounds, spelled the difference between victory and defeat in the Tuesday battle played at Capital University in Columbus.

His under-the-basket shot with 1:23 left in the game put the Broncos out in front to stay, 56-55, after the score was tied up six times and the lead changed hands on ten occasions.

The win entitles the Pickaway County champs to battle Johnston (19-1), Licking County's titleholder, at 7 p. m. Friday night. The Johnston quintet eliminated Pickaway from further competition Monday night by whipping the Pirates, 61-38.

PICKAWAY COUNTY'S third entry, Jackson, goes into the Central District tournament war at 8:30 tonight, when the Wildcats battle Danville at Capital University. Danville, with a 13-8 mark, is the Kappa County tournament runner-up. In the 7 p. m. game, Northwestern (18-3) takes on Iberia (17-8).

In racking up its 19th win, Ashville started out strong, jumping to a 17-10 lead in the first quarter. However, Reynoldsburg came back and knotted the score at 17 by the end of the period.

The second period was close as the way with the score tied up twice and the lead changing hands three times.

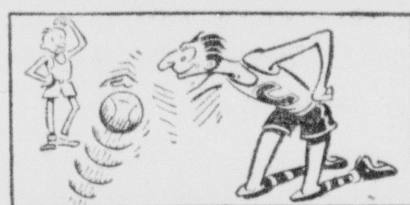

Reynoldsburg had plenty of trouble in the first half, losing the ball many times on costly turnovers.

Ashville was having its trouble with its defense.

Except for when the score was knotted at 32, Ashville led the entire third period with its biggest margin at 42-37. The canto ended with the Broncos on top, 44-41.

THE TWO teams provided excitement-plus for the overflow crowd in the action-packed fourth frame.

In the final canto, the score was tied up once and the lead changed hands six times, before Hoover's basket put the Broncos in the driver's seat for good.

Bill Parker dropped in a basket for Reynoldsburg to open the final period and make the score 44-43. Ashville's Miller connected for two foul shots making it 46-43. Dan Shively made a free throw and Parker hit for a basket to knot the score at 46. Curry dropped in a free throw to regain the lead for Ashville.

Kenny Brooks fired a long one to give Reynoldsburg the lead for the first time since the second period when he put his team in front, 44-43. Larry Fullen meshed the nets with a beautiful underhand drive shot to win back the lead for Ashville. He followed this up with a charity throw to give Ashville a 50-48 lead.

Brooks dropped through a free throw and Parker made a two-pointer and Reynoldsburg was on top again, 51-50. Shively scored two free throws to tie Reynoldsburg's lead to 53-50. Curry tossed in two charity tosses and Hoover connected for two more free throws to regain a shaky 54-53 advantage for Ashville.

GARY BLACKSTONE hit on a basket and Reynoldsburg led 55-54. At this point, Hoover ripped the cords with a basket and Jerry Riegel dropped through two free throws and Ashville held a 58-55 advantage. Shively brought Reynoldsburg to 58-57 with a basket but Riegel ended the scoring with a free throw.

In another hair-raising battle, the fighting Shamrocks of Lancaster St. Marys upset the Fairfield County champs, Pleasantville, 65-60, causing pandemonium to break loose and cheer leaders to shed tears.

The shorter St. Marys cagers ball-hawked the taller Pleasantville basketballers all through the game before downing the seventh-seeded quintet.

At Otterbein, Prospect won its 22nd of 23 games with a 67-63 win over Mifflin and Olentangy upped its record to 14-9 with an 82-62 triumph over Mt. Gilead.

Local Youth Plays Ball At Illinois Base

S-Sgt. David Luckhart, of Pickaway County, is spending a week at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois with the Youngstown Municipal AFB basketball team, of which he is a member. The team is participating in the Great Lakes basketball tournament.

Luckhart will be discharged from the Air Force March 12th with four years of service to his credit. He took his basic training at Sampson Air Force Base in New York and then spent eight months at Keesler AFB at Biloxi, Miss.

He served a year in Korea and then was transferred for the remainder of his service time to the Youngstown base.

In 1955, the Youngstown AFB basketball team won the Lake Erie Conference title and Luckhart was awarded a trophy for being the leading scorer.

While in Korea, the baseball and basketball teams of which Luckhart was a member, were awarded trophies for winning second place in the Korean Conference.

U. S. Assembling Radar Chain To Reach Half Around Globe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is slowly assembling a radar warning system in the air, on the ground, at sea — which will reach around almost half the globe.

The Distant Early Warning Line (Dewline) being built in secret places on the polar rim of the North American continent is only a component of the vast system intended ultimately to give warning to this country of enemy aircraft (and perhaps later missiles) approaching from almost any point of the compass.

Stations somewhat similar to the powerful radar installations going into the Dewline sites apparently are beginning to appear in far corners of the world—in Okinawa and other far Western Pacific islands; on islets in the Central Pacific; in the Hawaiian group; up in the strategically critical archipelago of Alaska; in Greenland; in the Caribbean.

Texas towers are being built in coastal waters to extend the fixed position stations of the radar chains across Canada and the United States.

Unlike the continental American radar systems, the overseas stations cannot be considered a warning "chain." There are, of course, huge gaps of thousands of miles which the mainland and island stations cannot cover by overlapping range of their radar units.

Into these gaps, the United States through its Navy and Air Force is putting plugs. They are planes and ships.

Dayton Girl, 5, Recomes Citizen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill to make Jane Edith Thomas of Dayton, Ohio, a U. S. citizen. The five-year-old girl was born in Trieste, Italy, to an American soldier and his Italian wife. Brought to this country, immigration authorities said the child's passport was made out wrong and that she would have to leave. The legislation passed by the Senate also would apply to any other child in Jane's circumstance.

Postal Vacation Setup Tightened

CINCINNATI (AP)—Postmasters in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky have been sent circulars asking them to defer vacation periods until after June 30.

Herbert C. Rumble, director of the Cincinnati Postal Region which covers the three states, said it was a move to reduce the deficit as much as possible before the end of the fiscal year June 30.

He said the postal department faces a deficit of $441 million by that time.

Substitute employees often are needed to take the places of persons on vacation, Rumble said.

Akron Councilmen Change Minds

AKRON (AP)—City councilmen yesterday killed a $50-a-month car allowance they voted for themselves only a week ago.

"We heard too much about it from the folks at home," one councilman explained.

The car allowance, to have applied even to councilmen who don't own automobiles, would have raised salaries from the present $3,900 to $4,500 a year.

Council approved pay raises for a city of 51,000 people.

In each instance, he took over a position which had traditionally been held by an Irish-Catholic. The change definitely represented a shift in population and a loss of interest in party politics by the older group as it grew richer, more certain of itself and less concerned with the struggle for power.

Incidentally, in New York, the Negroes are emerging forcefully to political leadership. They are not encountering the resistance that really is in the heart of Edwin O'Connor's "The Last Hurrah." They are being catered to by both parties, being given good positions in increasingly large numbers. U. S. Assembling Radar Chain To Reach Half Around Globe

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is slowly assembling a radar warning system in the air, on the ground, at sea — which will reach around almost half the globe.

The Distant Early Warning Line (Dewline) being built in secret places on the polar rim of the North American continent is only a component of the vast system intended ultimately to give warning to this country of enemy aircraft and perhaps later missiles) approaching from almost any point of the compass.

Stations somewhat similar to the powerful radar installations going into the Dewline sites apparently are beginning to appear in far corners of the world—in Okinawa and other far Western Pacific islands; on islets in the Central Pacific; in the Hawaiian group; up in the strategically critical archipelago of Alaska; in Greenland; in the Caribbean.

Texas towers are being built in coastal waters to extend the fixed position stations of the radar chains across Canada and the United States.

Unlike the continental American radar systems, the overseas stations cannot be considered a warning "chain." There are, of course, huge gaps of thousands of miles which the mainland and island stations cannot cover by overlapping range of their radar units.

Into these gaps, the United States through its Navy and Air Force is putting plugs. They are planes and ships.

Dayton Girl, 5, Becomes Citizen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill to make Jane Edith Thomas of Dayton, Ohio, a U. S. citizen. The five-year-old girl was born in Trieste, Italy, to an American soldier and his Italian wife. Brought to this country, immigration authorities said the child's passport was made out wrong and that she would have to leave. The legislation passed by the Senate also would apply to any other child in Jane's circumstance.

U. S. Explains Change In Payment Method On Market Lambs

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St. Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced a change in the method of making payments for lambs marketed with the wool on under the wool incentive program. The change will become effective with the 1956 marketing year, beginning April 1.

Wallace Barr, Ohio State University extension economist, says that under the new method each producer who sells unshorn lambs will be eligible for a payment, provided he has owned the lambs for 30 days or more. Payments to each producer will be made on the weight or weight increase of the animals that occurs during his ownership. This is in contrast to the method for the current program of making payments only on animals marketed for slaughter, Barr explains.

The original producer of lambs, under the new method, will be eligible for a payment based on the full liveweight of the animals at the time he sells them. Each subsequent owner will be eligible for payment only on that portion of the weight produced during his ownership. In the case of lambs purchased before April 1, 1956, and marketed later, payments will be on the full weight at the time of sale.

Ownership of 30 days or more will continue to be an eligibility requirement. The method of determining lamb payments will not be changed. The rate will be based on the incentive payment for shorn wool converted to a flat rate per hundred pounds of liveweight of the animals marketed. Payments will be made only on unshorn lambs.

Under the new method, each applicant must make an accounting of the number of head and pounds of animals purchased and sold, and his payment will be made on the pounds gained while he owned them. Payments to producers who buy unshorn lambs and later shear them will be subject to a downward adjustment in any shorn wool incentive payment they apply for. The downward adjustment will be the amount of the lamb payment the previous owner was eligible to receive.

Ohio poultrymen may find help on individual problems in special clinics arranged for Farm and Home Week, March 20, 21 and 22 at Ohio State University. The poultry science department has scheduled the clinics as a part of its morning and afternoon programs the first two days of Farm and Home Week. Staff members also will take visitors on conducted tours of the university's poultry farm.

Speakers will stress current problems in the poultry industry in their discussions. Topics will include methods of getting the most money from eggs and chickens, ways to stretch the fed dollar, modern trends in poultry housing and information on hybrid chickens.

The department has planned a special program for youth Thursday afternoon, March 22. Speakers will discuss opportunities in the poultry science field and the training needed for such a career.

Ohio's 4-H club advisors who have served rural boys and girls for 5, 10, 15, 20, 25 and 30 years will be honored at a recognition luncheon March 23 in the Ohio Union ballroom on the Ohio State University campus.

The 822 advisors in this group have completed a total of 5,860 years of service. Ohio Extension Director W. B. Wood, and O. B. Price, a railroad agricultural agent, will present them with certificates and pins. Miss Eva M. Kinsey, assistant state club leader will honor them in a special ceremony "Wisdom and Stature."

Five of the advisors have completed 30 years of service. They are Mrs. L. E. Karg, Jefferson; Estella Schaefer, Hamilton; Martha Davis, Beaver; Mrs. W. T. Meridith, Marietta and A. E. Winters, Quaker City. Dr. Howard L. Bevis, university president, will extend greetings and H. W. Harshfield, state 4-H club leader, will preside.

The luncheon will close the curtain on Farm and Home Week activities on the Campus March 20, 21 and 22.

Arraignment Set In Assault Case
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The FBI said M. C. Graham, 37, an Albany steelworker, will be arraigned today for an assault on Minnie L. Dunigan at the Veterans Hospital in Albany.

Authorities at Albany said Graham shot Miss Dunigan as she sat in the hospital parking lot. She suffered a compound fracture of the right leg, which later was amputated.

Police said he had been arrested previously for an assault on the same woman.
The FBI said Graham was hiding in the home of a cousin when agents arrested him Tuesday.

School Bus Pilot Fined In Court

CINCINNATI (AP)—The school bus driver who was arrested recently for driving his school bus past an over-halted school bus was convicted last night by Justice of the Peace Richard H. Cockerill.

Magistrate Cockerill fined Harry Williamson, 65, the driver, court costs for passing the bus but remitted them.

Williamson claimed the driver of the halted bus signaled him to pass but the other driver did not appear as a witness.

County Patrolman Bernard Henson, said he saw Williamson drive his bus past the other vehicle but did not see any signal given for him to pass.

Special Interests Hit By DiSalle

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP)—Special interests should be stopped from setting various segments of Ohio's economy against one another, says Michael V. DiSalle, Democratic candidate for gubernatorial nomination.

DiSalle, on a radio program last Tuesday, said special interest lobbyists "have tried to array cities against villages, urban (areas) against rural, labor against management, farmer against city worker."

He did not identify the special interests who he said are thwarting Ohio's progress by serving themselves "to the detriment of the general welfare."

Dayton Bus Line Facing Walkout

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Another effort will be made Monday to stall off a threatened strike for March 7 of 300 workers of City Transit Co.—Dayton's major bus line.

A meeting Tuesday of company and union representatives failed to ease the strike threat by drivers and maintenance men. Federal Mediator James Wilson of Cincinnati, who sat in on the talks, said the "spirit of the negotiations continues to be friendly" and that another meeting will be held Monday.

Taxpayers Get New Warning On Assistance

Taxpayers who find it necessary to obtain outside assistance in the preparation of their 1955 Federal tax returns should be careful to consult qualified tax practitioners," District Director Nathaniel Looker of Internal Revenue said today.

"Too often taxpayers obtain incompetent persons to assist them in the preparation of their returns," Looker declared. "The smaller fees charged by these persons are the usual inducement. Possession of a notarial commission is no assurance of competence in tax matters. The type of person offering this suspect service usually sets up office in some business establishment where temporary desk space may be obtained."

"Taxpayers requiring assistance in complex matters should consult qualified tax practitioners whenever possible. This is not designed to eliminate the highly valuable assistance often provided by company cashiers, auditors and bookkeepers or bank personnel who help their employees—a service we recommend and appreciate."

"I feel it imperative however that taxpayers who seek dubious assistance in the preparation of their returns be reminded that they must stand responsibility for the accuracy of their entries and calculations. However, if returns prepared by any so-called 'tax expert' show a repetitive pattern of erroneous deductions or omissions of taxable income, all returns prepared by that individual will be given a thorough examination."

Looker also reminded taxpayers that April 15 is again the deadline for the filing of Federal tax returns and that checks or money orders accompanying the returns should be made payable to the Internal Revenue Service, and mailed to 110 W. Long Street, Columbus 15, Ohio.

U. S. Explains Change In Payment Method On Market Lambs

ROUNDUP

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St. Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced a change in the method of making payments for lambs marketed with the wool on under the wool incentive program. The change will become effective with the 1956 marketing year, beginning April 1.

Wallace Barr, Ohio State University extension economist, says that under the new method each producer who sells unshorn lambs will be eligible for a payment, provided he has owned the lambs for 30 days or more. Payments to each producer will be made on the weight or weight increase of the animals that occurs during his ownership. This is in contrast to the method for the current program of making payments only on animals marketed for slaughter, Barr explains.

The original producer of lambs, under the new method, will be eligible for a payment based on the full liveweight of the animals at the time he sells them. Each subsequent owner will be eligible for payment only on that portion of the weight produced during his ownership. In the case of lambs purchased before April 1, 1956, and marketed later, payments will be on the full weight at the time of sale.

Ownership of 30 days or more will continue to be an eligibility requirement. The method of determining lamb payments will not be changed. The rate will be based on the incentive payment for shorn wool converted to a flat rate per hundred pounds of liveweight of the animals marketed. Payments will be made only on unshorn lambs.

Under the new method, each applicant must make an accounting of the number of head and pounds of animals purchased and sold, and his payment will be made on the pounds gained while he owned them. Payments to producers who buy unshorn lambs and later shear them will be subject to a downward adjustment in any shorn wool incentive payment they apply for. The downward adjustment will be the amount of the lamb payment the previous owner was eligible to receive.
